New "Inside-Out" Prison Exchange Program at Smith State Prison

Smith State Prison has begun a new journey. It will be the first state prison in Georgia to take part in the "Inside-Out" Prison Exchange Program with Georgia Southern University (GSU). This program was introduced to the prison by Bryan Miller, Ph.D.; the Head of the Justice Studies Department at GSU. After contacting the facility, permission was granted by the Department for the program to begin. Dr. Miller's class has left the collegiate halls of the university and is now being taught inside of a level five close security prison. The program held its first meeting on January 18th, of this year.

The "Inside-Out" Prison Exchange Program is an opportunity for a small group of students from Georgia Southern University and a group of inmates who are serving a Life sentence at Smith State Prison to exchange ideas and perceptions about crime and justice, the criminal justice system, corrections and imprisonment. It is a chance for the students to gain a deeper understanding of the criminal justice system through the combination of theoretical knowledge and practical experience achieved by weekly meetings extended throughout the semester.

There are 15 students from the university in the program and 17 inmates from Smith SP actively participating with them. The inmates involved are allowed the opportunity to explore their own views on these issues in an academic setting. This setting will create an environment that will facilitate the honest exchange of ideas in a dialogic format. And will provide each student an experiential setting to test and hone their theoretical understanding about various criminal justice and correctional issues.

Northwest RSAT Graduation

Twelve Detainees received their GED certificate at a ceremony held at the program at Northwest RSAT Center. Representatives from the Georgia Northwestern Technical College of Adult Education and family and friends attended the ceremony.

Remarks and words of encouragement were provided by Nicole Duck and Brenda Harris of Georgia Northwestern Technical College of Adult Education. Chaplain Jeremy Stroop provided spiritual guidance and Superintendent Mark Abusaft acknowledge Ms. Duck, Ms. Harris and Mr. Andrew Lee of the college for their commitment and determination for delivering the best education program at Northwest RSAT Center.

During the ceremony, detainee Tarrant McDowell was acknowledged for receiving a perfect score of 800 in literature and detainee Joseph Gentile was acknowledged for receiving the highest overall average of 3240.

Family and friends had the opportunity to visit and celebrate this special occasion with their loved ones.

"I would like to send a special thank you to the staff who planned and coordinated this event for Northwest RSAT," said Superintendent Abusaft.

2014 All American bus

The Department is excited to announce the addition of 10 new 2014 All American buses to its fleet.

On Feb. 27, Blue Bird Corporation and Yancey Bus Sales and Service presented the Department with two of the ten buses at State Offices South at Tift College during a delivery ceremony in Forsyth.

"Georgia welcomes the new partnership," said Chief Operating Officer for the State of Georgia Bart Gobeil. "We need to always work together to ensure that we look at Georgia made products."

State and local elected officials were in attendance along with Georgia COO, Bart Gobeil; Corrections Commissioner, Brian Owens; Blue Bird President & CEO, Phil Horlock; Yancey Brothers Company Vice President, Eric Arnold as well as representatives from the Department, Blue Bird Corporation, Yancey Bus Sales and the Monroe County Chamber of Commerce.

These ten buses will replace buses in the Department's current Fleet that have more than 300,000 miles.

The buses will feature 50 passenger seating, fully-maximized exterior and interior storage with pass-through luggage compartments and a customized on-board lavatory.

"Our buses are world class with the best fuel economy, best tight turn range, widest entrance door, best durability in crash testing and best roll over rate," said Blue Bird CEO Horlock.

For more than 86 years Blue Bird has been making buses. Blue Bird's headquarters is located in Fort Valley Georgia and was founded in 1927. The new buses will go into use immediately.

"Our partnership with Blue Bird Corporation is a new beginning for the Department," said Commissioner Owens.

MLK Drum Major Award Presented to Metro DRC

On January 29, the Metro Atlanta Day Reporting Center (DRC) received the MLK Drum Major for Service Award during the Seventh Commencement Ceremony by Hands On Atlanta (HOA).

This award was created and executed by President Barack Obama. The criteria states that this award "honors those volunteers who perform extraordinary everyday acts of service with reliability and commitment, but who seldom receive recognition".

The MLK Drum Major for Service Award has afforded Metro Atlanta DRC

the opportunity to address a variety of unmet critical needs in underserved, under developed areas such as the Historic West end area of Atlanta.

HOA is a not for profit organization that partners with the Office of President Obama to serve as the liaison for this award.

HOA has been an invaluable partner with Metro Atlanta DRC for almost three years and continues to provide noteworthy projects specifically tailored to court ordered participants.

Community Relations Manager

Genora Crooke was instrumental in the planning and implementation process of this award. Crooke continues to collaborate with Counselor Kimberly R. Davis, who also serves in the capacity of the center's Stakeholder Coordinator. Crooke was awarded Stakeholder of the Year for her many creative initiatives, her outstanding service, dedication and always going the extra mile to execute the mission of the Metro Atlanta DRC. Crooke said she was honored to share this moment in history with such an outstanding leadership team.

"As a team, we value and understand the importance of giving back without expecting anything in return and have instilled this belief to program participants through our Restorative Justice Initiatives and projects," said the Metro Atlanta DRC team.

Many projects totaling hundreds of exceptional service were performed by program participants and counselors Kimberly R. Davis and Kahala Russell.

A few highlights of those projects are as follows: preparation of meals to feed the hungry and homeless, warehouse assistance to prepare and ship books to children in Africa, gardening projects with the focus of assisting participants with the necessary skills to plant, weed, and harvest fruit and vegetables.

The West End Urban Garden Nursery always encourages those who assist with this project to return to learn additional skills and share in the harvest. Participants have also assisted with home renovations to ensure that women who would otherwise be homeless would be able to experience a life inside the walls of their home, and various MLK projects.

The feedback from organizations is that these participants always perform with professionalism, they are reliable, and they work hard and with pride!

President Obama wrote a personal letter to staff at the Metro Atlanta DRC. Below is an excerpt from the letter:

Fire Chief Stan Garnto with inmate fire fighters

Community leaders, area fire chiefs and DOC officials came together on Feb. 28 to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the Johnson State Prison Firehouse.

Warden Jose Morales served as the master of ceremonies, recognizing those in attendance and thanking the fire firefighters for their service in the community.

"The community is very appreciative of our station," said Warden's Secretary Jan Martin, who is also a council member in Wrightsville. "These men risk their lives and we thank them."

During the ceremony Fire Chief Stan Garnto was presented with a plaque commemorating the anniversary by Assistant Director of Fire Services Larry Brown.

Warden Morales concluded the ceremony with a story of how firefighters saved his family from a house fire and with the Prayer of Firefighter.

Station No. 14 responds to an average of 125 calls per year and has automatic aid agreements with Laurens, Washington, Emanuel counties and all of Johnson county.
